Letter to the Editor

Over the past four months the Seminole City Council has been in discussion and debate over the most important issue Council must address each year. – the annual City Budget.

Despite our 2010 Budget having one-million less than in 2010, the final $15 million City Budget, passed overwhelmingly on September 22, 2009.

I would like to thank the citizens of Seminole for their input, for their attention to this issue, and for their acknowledgement of a City Budget that despite decreasing revenues did not raise taxes, did not lay-off employees, did not dip into reserves, and did not decrease quality of city services.

Seminole residents should be proud that the fiscal soundness of the City of Seminole is the envy of many other Florida cities.

I, like thousands of citizens, am proud to live in Seminole.
